best hash - SARGE'S

No, not that kind of hash! Corned beef hash, and not from a can, either. At SARGE'S, a 40-year-old establishment founded by a beat cop, the hash is made from scratch with tiny nubs of potato and slivers of house-cured corned beef. Fried until crisp, the hash is best surmounted by the optional trio of poached eggs. You won't find a better brunch.

SARGE'S (548 Third Avenue, near 36th Street; 679-0442) is underrated, especially its outsize bowls of chicken soup with huge kreplach. Surprisingly good burgers too. The real draw of Sarge's though, is that it's open 24/7 - and delivers. "They were there for me when I was writing my book," says Arthur Schwartz fondly. "I gained a lot of weight."

Sarge's Deli

Advocates advise "march the troops down for some rations" of "Jewish-style" deli classics like "the best matzo ball soup" and "if-only-I-could-get-my-mouth-around-'em" sandwiches.

Latkes

Of course, you can find them at Zabar's and the 2nd Avenue Deli. But miraculous-tasting versions of Hanukkah's traditional potato pancakes appear all over town. Atkins devotees, avert your eyes.

By Rebecca Marx.

#1. Sarge's Deli

A latke-lover's Xanadu. Dense, huge, cut with bits of carrot and onion, and fried in enough oil to last eight days, they're less potato pancake than gastronomic landmass. Three make a very substantial meal.

NEW YORK CITY

Sarge's Deli

A true NY Jewish deli... this 24/7 Murray Hill "time warp" is the place for "obscenely huge sandwiches" and other classics "served up efficiently." "where else can you go" at 3 AM?

Delivery area: Anywhere in Manhattan; $4 charge for orders above 60th Street or below 14th Street

About the food: Not kosher, but Sarge's makes the best corned-beef sandwich north of the 2nd Avenue Deli. During a recent bout with the flu, we became extremely dependent on the "souper soup," an immense bowl of chicken broth with the works: noodles, a huge matzo ball, and an even larger kreplach. Not only is Sarge's open 24 hours, it always offers the full menu. Ideal if you want boiled beef flanken at 4 A.M.

Sarge's Deli

24-Hour Manhattan Delivery

Come home late and need a pastrami fix? Some really good, fatty, spicy pastrami on rye? Or a crisp skinned roast chicken (okay, a little steamy inside) with mashed potatoes - wonderful, gloppy brown gravy on the side? A tuna sandwich or salad platter?

A sandwich high with whitefish salad? Bagels and lox (ask for extra onion)? I know - sometimes everyone, in the middle of the night, needs a piece of double-chocolate sin cake, or whatever they call it.

DON'T YOU EVER PAY HOMAGE TO SARGE'S PASTRAMI?

SARGE'S DELICATESSEN IS DEFINITELY

So off my beat. It's been there since 1964, but I have not. Curiosity piqued by the above gripe from a deli-maven reader, I step into a time warp, take a booth (young Abbie Hoffman smiles down at me), and let deli doyenne Jean Russo (a 28-year veteran) bring fabulous chicken in the pot. Our massive order doesn't faze her. "Don't worry, I'll bring doggie bags," she offers. I've forgotten how good sour pickles can be and love that house-cured pastrami—warm and fatty and full of flavor. (An old family recipe from the day Sarge's was founded by a retired city cop.) My guest and I split a corned beef-tongue combo—splendid corned beef, splendid tongue. Carried away by the fat of it all, my pal longs for the chocolate cream pie of yesteryear. "Why not?" says Jean. How Thiebaud it looks. And yet... so real. (548 Third Avenue, near 36th Street; 212-679-0442.)

Holidays are here for reflecting and eating. The Jewish Holidays are coming next week. It's a time for reflection and healing. Eating, too. Even if you're not Jewish, the New Year's holiday food should be savored and enjoyed. It's a great way to participate in a worldwide fellowship of food. It's hard to be intolerant while you're eating a bagel. Let's Eat Out. Sarge's Delicatessen dishes up Jewish-style soul food that truly nourishes the spirit as well as the body. Sarge's has been working its magic 24 hours a day for nearly 34 years. It's a place to shoot the breeze and nosh the kreplach. Start with a bowl of old fashioned chicken soup with matzo ball, borscht with sour cream, fried kreplach with onions, chopped herring or a sampler of stuffed derma, kreplach and potato pancake. For your entree, try such traditional dishes as pot roast with kasha varnishkas and vegetables, sweet and sour stuffed cabbage, boiled beef in the pot with matzo ball and chicken fricassee over rice or noodles. Sarge's is well-known for its bagel and smoked fish platters. Try the nova special with two bagels, Nova Scotia salmon, cream cheese, lettuce, tomato and Bermuda onion: lake sturgeon on a bagel with cream cheese or smoked whitefish on a b a g e l with cream cheese. Homemade dairy specialties include cheese or potato blintzes with sour cream, potato pancakes with sour cream or apple sauce, noodle kugel, and broiled or fried potato pirogen with fried onions and sour cream. For dessert, sample the lemon meringue pie, homemade cheese cake, strawberry shortcake, or their specialty, Mississippi Mud Cake.

Got Mustard? An Ageless Pleasure Between the Rye

Indeed, the only deli in New York that currently makes its own pastrami on premises is Sarge's, on Third Avenue between 36th and 37th streets.
